

In a Time of Crisis: Managing Key Relationships

Most library directors/supervisors engage with 5 key relationships--and those relationships are particularly important during something like this pandemic. Reflecting on the past few months, start with what worked well. You can just use bullet points. In the next column, reflect on the significance of that success. What did it teach you? Finally, what should now be part of your approach with each of these constituencies for the next challenge you face?

Constituency	Celebrations	Reflections	Planning
	What approaches or activities were successful?	What was the deeper lesson of that success? What did you learn?	What do you want to apply to the next issues, and/or use to make your library better .
Board or Governing Authority (or supervisor)
Staff (culture, operational management)
Community (political structure, users, non-users)
Profession (colleagues, prof. associations)
Personal (self-care)
